The Wolf: Life and Legend
Ecology and Behavior Presented by Frank Capolupo
Tuesday, August 8 @ 1:00pm

Join Frank as we dispel myths about wolves, evaluate the ecological need for these top predators, and take a close look at the need for coexistence as wolves return to our rural communities. The presentation includes the recent history of wolves in North America, the ecological value of the wolf, and what various wolf conservation centers are doing to recover the species today, through education, conservation, and research. Speaker Frank Capolupo has many years of experience in nonprofit education and outreach. His passion for wolf recovery is undeniable and is helping spread the truth about wolves.
